From the LA Times, 8 Sep 19:

Ted Strom

Ted Strom, 62, of Germantown, Tenn., was dedicated to medicine and science.

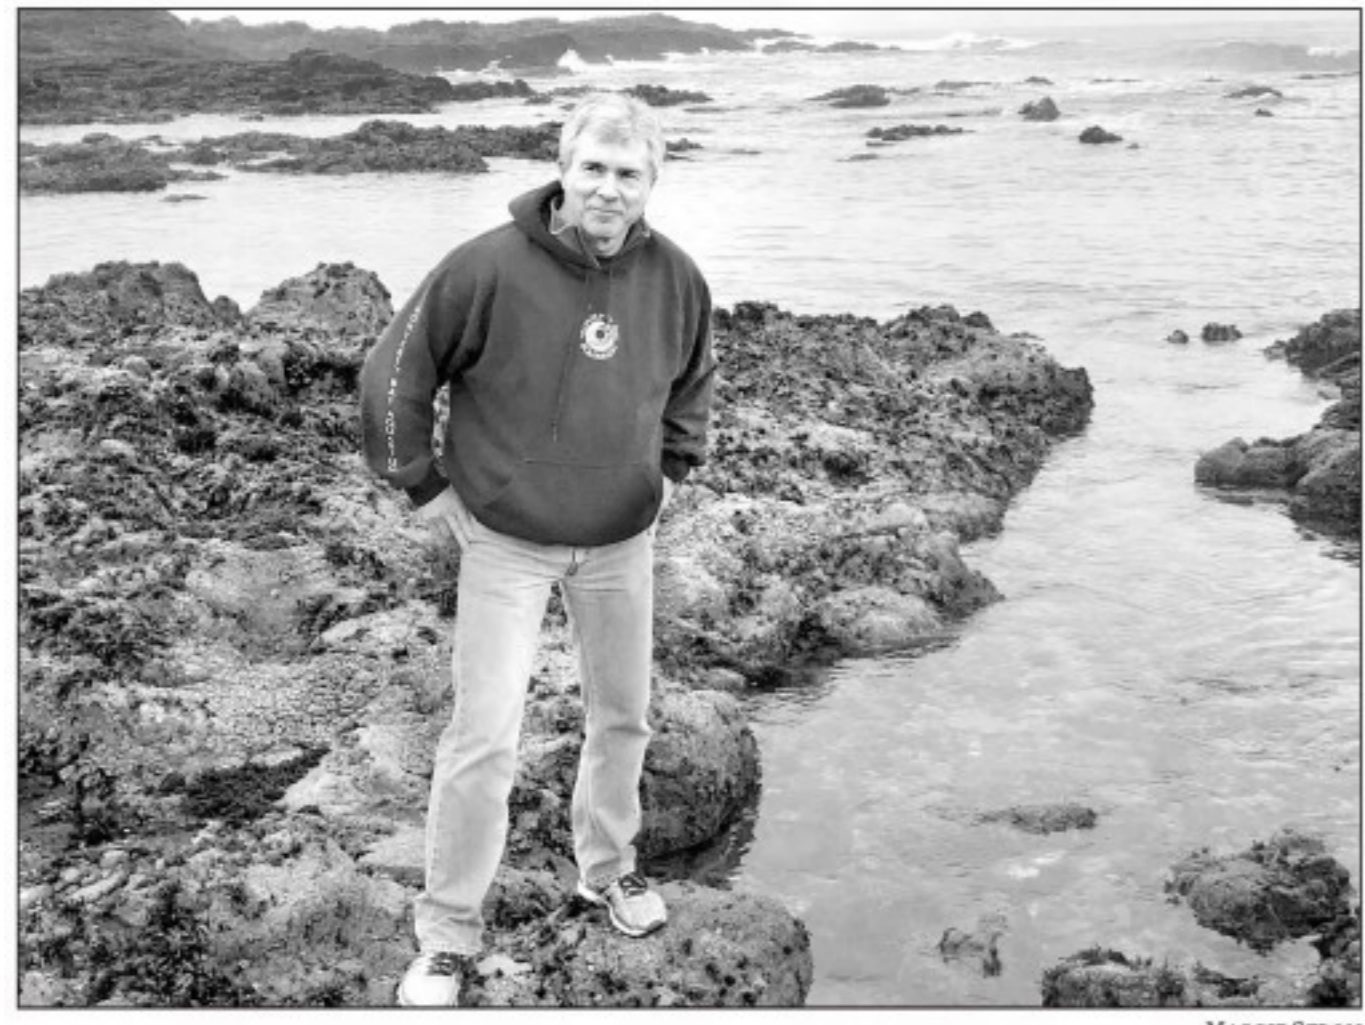

Strom worked for a decade as a staff physician at the Memphis Veterans Affairs Medical Center and an associate professor at the University of Tennessee's health science center. His work and teaching encompassed pathology and lab medicine service.

Strom's "exceptional service to veterans as a staff physician is a testament to the type of person that he was," medical center director David K. Dunning wrote in a statement. "He will certainly be missed."

Strom received his medical degree from the University of Chicago, in addition to a doctorate in biochemistry and bachelor's degrees in human biology and chemistry, according to his LinkedIn page.

In a Facebook photo from 2010, Strom is seen scuba diving, surrounded by a school of fish.
