Kitten acclimation continues - Sunshine now acts like a not-feral kitten and Shadow is slowly coming closer and closer before deciding humans are scary!

Who do you know that would like a kitten? These guys need loving forever homes 🐱🐱🐱

Oh my goodness, I wish we could. How is momma cat doing?

Mama cat is doing great! She is gaining weight, is super friendly and is setting a good example for the kittens in both being friendly to humans and using the litter box

Are you considering bringing them into a shelter if you can't find a taker? Oakland Animal Shelter is pretty good - they can take care of fixing/shots/socialization for the kittens - then putting them out into the adoption circuit, and fixing for the ... See More

Yes, that's the next step, though I am hoping they won't need to go to a shelter. The mom is actually totally socialized and is probably the most adoptable of the three

Carrie Cordeiro - do you have any opinions on shelter vs. Craigslist? I made a post and am finding it super challenging to trust the people I am hearing from to be good cat parents - and it occurred to me that shelters do screening as part of the stand... See More

Yesterday was the first of two memorials for Christina. I couldn't think of a more fitting place for it than David Best's Temple of Remembrance - and simultaneously found it so upsetting that a fitting place can exist for an occasion that feels so wrong, that shouldn't be necessary.

There are so many people who made it come together - and in the heartbreak that this past month has been, the support of the people around me, and of the people who also have cared so deeply about Chris, has been the only thing getting me through.

I believe we honored Chris well.

Next week, we do this again, with those of you on the east coast.

And I believe that all of us who love her carry her forward in our hearts.

Yulia Krashennaya updated her status.

November 8, 2016 ·

Words I have used to describe Christina: friend, housemate, coconspirator, force of nature, amazing. I don't remember meeting her, but do remember inviting her to my housewarming party back in 1999. I remember how easy it was for her to integrate into our lives when she moved to the Bay Area in 2009 and stayed in our guest room, and how hard we worked to create a household that was truly all of ours when we moved to Berkeley in 2010. I remember incredibly bright highs and very challenging lows - because that's what interweaving lives look like. And right now, more than anything else, I want to keep building on those memories.

I have no words for what this loss feels like.
